

Mile high altitude, 85 degree sunny weather, and hours worth of soccer are in the books as day 2 of the 2013 Rush Fest comes to a close just outside of Denver, Colorado. All 38 teams were in action today as the first round of games took place this morning. Like every year, the random draw of the opening games produced some very close games as well as a few lopsided ones. But all teams seem to be in high spirits and enjoying the biggest ever Rush Fest. The afternoon saw player partake in 'Street Soccer'. Few rules and very little coaching allows the players to express themselves with the ball at their feet and express themselves they did! Wonderful on ball skill was shown in each of the three brackets. Scissors, nutmegs and even a handful of rainbows were caught on video (which will hit the website as soon as it can be edited!) In addition to street soccer, Fest participants got some time in the air conditioning as Brian Lux led a classroom session on the Rush Core Values.

Day 3 promises to be just as exciting with morning games, afternoon training and classrooms sessions capped off with attending the MLS game between the Colorado Rapids and the New England Revolution. Over 1000 tickets have been sold in the 'Rush section' alone. Hopefully those Rapids fans brought their yelling voices cause the Rush kids aim to drown them out for 90 minutes!!

For more pictures, video and commentary, search for #rushfest on twitter, instagram and other social media outlets as players have been encouraged to post to those all week long!
