

Current member of the Western New York Flash of WPS, Brittany Bock recently visited the Alaska Rush. While in Anchorage, Bock (training for US Women's National Camp in November) spent time training with teams, signing autographs and even participating in a Q & A with some of the young players at Alaska Rush.

Brittany has also been spending time training with the Colorado Rush as she readies for camp. "Brittany is a great player with a wonderful mentality. She adds to the play regardless of whether she is training with our top girls team or our Academy boys," commented Colorado Rush Technical Director Erik Bushey. "Our players are benefiting from her presence and I hope she will benefit from our environment as she prepares for her national team duties."
